As employees everywhere now work from kitchen tables, couches, deck chairs, and makeshift home offices, they're engaging with technology in new ways. Losing the commute—and traditional workday boundaries—means we're spending more time in front of our screens. But poor ergonomics and even aesthetics are taking their toll. In partnership with the built for business Intel vPro® platform, Lenovo has created the Smarter Way Forward campaign to provide insights and resources to help you improve the employee experience.
